Code of conduct:

- Volunteers are responsible for a positive example to partners, community and clients
- Volunteers must dress appropriately in public and at work, always keeping in mind cultural norms in communities especially where trainings will be carried out
- Volunteers must at all times be discreet in any personal conversations regarding their assignments or other related or personal issues.
- All relationships with staff or beneficiaries shall be on a professional basis.
- Volunteers should exercise care in their language, gestures and attitudes.
- Volunteers should avoid any personal, financial, conflict or other interests that might hinder their capability or willingness to perform their assigned duties. Volunteers are expected to avoid situations which may have conflict of interest with the organization (e.g. other commitments, roles in other organizations). If any potential area of conflict arises, please consult with your supervisor or Advocate Gurira
- Not seek or accept rewards, benefits or gifts without authorization.
